But the same results in these and all like cases will more readily and with equal correctness be reached by proceeding as follows: a. Subtract the finite part of the decimal, (i. e. , the part of the number to the right of the v which does not repeat), from the whole of said decimal, that is, from the whole of that part of the number which is to the right of the v; ft. Taking thereupon the remainder thus obtained for a dividend, draw a horizontal line beneath it, subscribing for a divisor a number expressed by as many 9s as there were originally places in the circle with as many Os to the right of them as there were originally places in the said finite part of the said decimal; y. Multiply whatever of the number was originally to the left of the delta by this divisor and add the product to the dividend already found to complete it. 90. Exercises. 1. Change v6i to its equivalent (vulgar) fraction. 2. Change V489 to its equivalent fraction in its lowest terms. 3. Change v808 to its equivalent fraction. 4. Change V00046 to its equivalent fraction. 5. Change V0032 to its equivalent fraction. 6. Change v6i to its equivalent fraction. 7. Change v4 to its equivalent fraction. 8. Change vi94 to its equivalent fraction. 9. Change vi099 to its equivalent fraction. 10. Change 12vi2 to its equivalent (improper) fraction. 11. Change v3620 to its...
