Excerpt: . . . school attendance or participation in other training programs. The Labor Code prohibits work that is hazardous to the mental and physical development of children under the age of 18, although the law does not define what types of work are considered hazardous. Children must have the consent of a parent or guardian in order to work, and employers must maintain a list of all working children below the age of 18. The Labor Code does not cover employment in the informal sector of the economy. On August 23, 1999, Cambodia ratified ILO Convention No. 138 on minimum age but has not ratified ILO Convention No. 182 on the worst forms of child labor. MOSALVY has conducted four workshops to educate members of the National Assembly and Senate regarding ILO Convention No. 182 and has submitted it to the Council of Ministers for approval before submission to the National Assembly for ratification. Observers report, however, that Cambodias existing domestic legislation on child labor still does not adequately define what constitutes child labor, nor does it establish appropriate penalties and other punitive measures to deter violations. According to a survey conducted by the National Institute of Statistics, 1, 665, 934 children (49 percent) between the ages of 5 and 14 were working in Cambodia in 2001. Domestic work (chores) in the childs household was included in this survey. In 1999, the National Institute of Statistics estimated that 313, 811...
