Green, Held at the Capitol, Wednesday, March 14, 1917 George E. Green was, indeed, a self-made man, having won his way to prosperity, influence and honor by steady, untiring energy, industry and fidelity of purpose, rather than by accident of birth or favoritism of fortune. His ancestry was English - his great grandfather, Samuel Van Buskirk Green, with his family, emigrating to this country toward the latter part of the seventeenth century, and settling in the old town of Baltimore. He was a civil engineer of repute whose signature may be found on the old survey records of Baltimore. Samuel Van Buskirk Green, Jr., grandfather of Mr. Green, at an early age left Baltimore and located near the present city of Wilmington, Del., where he married Miss Sarah Heartt. He was a gallant soldier of the War of 1812, and soon thereafter removed to the north with his family, being among the pioneer settlers of...
