Excerpt: .night, thus throwing out the effect of the Earth s daily motion. This apparent motion is due to the Earth s revolution round the Sun. The fixed stars have the same apparent movement, except that Jupiter s real motion retards a little the apparent movement due to the Earth s revolution. All these movements to and from the horizon are to be disregarded. The planet s real or proper motion, which is the chief object of attentfon is indicated by its change of place among the fixed stars. Whenever it crosses a line joining two other stars on the same or opposite sides of it, its motion becomes evident at once by the making or breaking of the line. It often forms with other stars, regular figures, triangles, diamonds, etc, and any variation in the regularity of the figure makes the movement quickly evident. (III.)...
