Arbitration was never intended as a tool to advan-tage one side over the other in a dispute. To be a respected and reasonable alternative to the courts, arbitration must provide a level and fair playing field. But since our June hearing, several re-ports have been issued revealing how arbitration favors businesses, employers and securities firms. These reports do not paint a rosy picture for fairness in arbitration. However, we hope to elicit more testimony today on the accuracy of these reports to help us deter-mine whether H. R. 3010 is needed legislation. Finally, during our June hearing on this issue, the Ranking Member on the Subcommittee, Mr. Cannon, stated that we should review proposals to restrict the freedom of contract cautiously. I concur with Mr. Cannons statement, but also firmly believe that we should thoroughly review any process such as arbitration that may restrict constitutional and statutory rights and that...
